Luke Morrison acts for energy companies on a broad range of commercial transactions, both in Canada and internationally. He regularly represents clients in the negotiation and drafting of energy contracts relating to the development of oil & gas and renewable/alternative resources, including joint venture, construction, operations, marketing/midstream and other types of project agreements. Luke also assists clients in the acquisition and divestiture of energy-related projects and assets, including the negotiation of purchase and sale agreements and conducting corporate, title, and environmental due diligence.

Luke articulated with the firm before becoming an associate and then partner.

Luke is a member of the Canadian Energy Law Foundation and the Natural Resources Section of the Canadian Bar Association.
