Curtis Piggott practises in all areas of corporate and commercial law with an emphasis on commercial real estate and corporate finance.

In Curtis' real estate practice, he regularly assists clients with a variety of commercial, condominium, multi-family and mixed-use projects which has afforded him the opportunity to gain a wide range of experience in complex development matters from the planning stage to the sales stage. In particular, Curtis has developed significant expertise with regards to the incorporation of strata lot subdivisions in large mixed-use real estate development projects.

In addition to his real estate development experience, Curtis is also well versed in corporate finance and private equity matters, including project financings, debt and equity financing activities and transactions, recapitalizations and restructurings, asset-backed loan facilities and mezzanine commercial loan transactions.
