Graham Scott combines over 30 years as a resource and corporate finance lawyer with eight years of practical experience as an exploration geologist to give clients expert, balanced advice on all resource related matters.

Graham represents many Canadian public companies which are listed on the TSX and TSX Venture Exchanges, in addition to clients in the corporate finance business. He also represents a diverse group of clients in the mining industry, ranging from individual prospectors to multinational mining companies. In such work, Graham negotiates and prepares participation and joint venture agreements for properties throughout the world.

Graham has presented papers on securities law and mining law matters and has chaired many legal and industry conferences.
