Ania Konikowski is a litigation associate with a practice that focuses on labour and employment and commercial litigation.

Labour & Employment

Ania has extensive experience representing employers on a wide variety of employment matters and has appeared before all levels of Court in Alberta. She provides strategic advice to her clients regarding all employment matters, including severance issues, human rights concerns and complaints to the Employment Standards Board. Ania has also appeared before the Saskatchewan Labour Board and conducted labour arbitration proceedings in Alberta.

Commercial Litigation

Ania also has a general commercial litigation practice with a focus on complex contractual disputes, shareholders' disputes and partnership disputes.

Before joining the firm, Ania practiced at regional firms in Edmonton and an employment boutique in Vancouver.
