Matt LaFleche assists and represents clients in a broad range of litigation and regulatory matters. His practice includes:

Corporate/Commercial Disputes

Matt assists both individuals and corporations in a broad range of commercial matters, including shareholder and contract disputes, product liability, foreclosures, builders' liens, and other construction disputes. Matt also has experience dealing with fraud matters and commercial class action claims.

Professional Negligence and Discipline

Matt assists professionals, particularly physicians and surgeons, in connection with both civil litigation and professional discipline matters.

Employment and Privacy

Matt has assisted clients with various employment matters, particularly helping employees who have been wrongfully dismissed. Matt has also advised clients on issues relating to the protection and disclosure of information under Alberta privacy legislation.

Occupational Health and Safety

Matt assists clients with occupational health and safety matters and has experience assisting in the defence of health and safety prosecutions.

Matt has appeared before all levels of court in Alberta, as well as various administrative panels and regulatory bodies. With a background in Engineering, Matt has a particular interest in matters that involve technical considerations or issues.

Matt is an active volunteer in the legal community, volunteering with both the Edmonton Community Legal Centre as well as the organizing committee for the Canadian Bar

Association's annual Law Day event.
